NICHOLL IS BACK AGAIN

We Have Best of Base Contest

John Nicholl, the well known banker and land owner, is back from a two-months trip in New York and at the National Capital.

He says that the Richmond harbor appropriation will go through. He was so assured by every California Congressman.

As for the location of the naval base, he says that while it has not been settled, the Richmond-Alhambra site seems to have the inside track. All this talk about Hunters Point and other locations has real estate owners back of it. He spoke in high praise of the hard work Senator Phelan and Representative Ellerton are doing for the site mentioned.

As related in the News some time ago, Nicholl went East primarily to put through a big deal in behalf of the Richmond water front, and there is every chance that it will be consummated.

FINE BILL AT THE POINT

"Timothy, how could you?" That's right. How could he? But that argues that you don't know Timothy as well as we do. There is nothing remarkable about Timothy's adventure in this number of the "Timothy Dobbs—That's Me" series, written by Ben Meredith and produced by Wallace Ross. That is nothing remarkable to one who has made this young man's acquaintance in the first episode of the series. Timothy, in the person of Caster De Haven, can do absolutely anything. His nerve and self-esteem are sufficient for all emergencies. As a soda clerk he was a wonder and none of the girls could resist him. He knew he could act, so he decided to give the public the benefit of his talent. Hence episode two, where Timothy breaks into the movies. He breaks in in more ways than one and almost succeeds in breaking up the whole show. See him at the Point theater today.

ITALIAN GARDNER KICKS AT PLANTING WEEK

Some of the gardeners heresabouts are not particularly pleased with the idea of citizens raising their own garden truck.

Antonio Petrol called at the News office yesterday and raised an awful roar about it.

"What for everybody plants the veg?" he asked.

"Prices are too high," replied the News agricultural editor. "Going to raise our own vegetables."

"You vanta puta me outa business, hah?"

"Why don't you lower prices, then? It don't cost you any more to raise vegetables now than it ever did, does it?" retorted the editor.

"But he costs me more to raise da fam. It costs more for da shoe; it costs more for da dress, da suit, da meat—everything costs more mon. I gotta raise da price on da veg. You tell da shoe man, da man w'at sells da meat, da man w'at sella da fish, da man w'at sella da clothes, he gotta da price on w'at he sell, I outa da price on da veg."

We promised him we would take it up with Fred Newsom of the Independent and see what could be done about it.

MIRAMAR CHAPTER RECEPTION.—Worthy Matron Mrs. Isabel Cassidy and Worthy Patron Dr. C. A. Abbott were the guests of honor at a reception tendered them last evening by Miramar Chapter, O. E. S., in Fraternal Hall. Mrs. Elizabeth Turner had charge of the affair, which proved a most delightful one in every way. Following an informal program, a banquet was served, and dancing followed. The honored guests made short talks in which they expressed their deep appreciation of the good fellowship of the members.

WANTED.—What? 100 young people from Point Richmond.

What for? To attend a great meeting.

Where? First Methodist church, Richmond.

When? Sunday, February 18, at 6:30 and 7:30 p. m.

Bring a friend. Don't miss this.

J. C. Gillette, Minister.

W O W DANCE TONIGHT.

The Woodmen of the World will give a dance this evening in Moose hall, as the Jolly Four who give regular dances there have postponed this week's dance in favor of the Woodmen Captain Wigmore of the drill team and C. Engleman are in charge of the affair.

MEX INVADERS AFRICAN CLUB

Now Has a Sore Mexican Bean

A couple of Mexicans invaded a colored club known as the Chicago Inn, last night, at 450 B street. They should have known better, for the colored troops fought nobly.

The Mex. had some extra juice under their belts and seemed to think that diplomatic relations with Africa had been suspended. They had.

One of them started a revolution with a colored gentleman of peaceful disposition, unsheathing a knife as long as his arm. The colored man promptly unlimbered a young revolver which he concealed about his person, and rapped Mr. Mex a couple of times over the bean with it.

Both the Mexicans were jailed by Officers Sprague and Mahanke and will have some explaining to do this morning in court.

PRE-LENTEN WHIST.

The last pre-Lenten whist party of St. Paul's church, San Pablo, will take place next Tuesday. Mrs. Mary Lucy, assisted by Mrs. Mary Roberts, Miss Emma Molitor, William Mattie, Miss Edith Meher, Miss Florence Molitor, and Miss Emel Almada, are making big preparations to make it a great success. A grand prize will be given, also other prizes. Dancing and refreshments. Tickets 25 cents.

Two other statues for the new side altars of St. Paul's church, San Pablo, have been presented. That of "Our Lady of Seven Sorrows" was given by P. Castro of San Pablo Creek, and "Our Lady of Mt. Carmel" by Mrs. Gabriel Regilio.

REED THOMPSON.

E. B. Reed, an attaché of the Standard Oil warehouse, is receiving the congratulations of his many friends today on his marriage to Miss Maude Thompson of San Francisco. Reed has worked six years for the Standard. He and his charming bride will make their home at the Point.

YEOMEN ENTERTAINMENT.

The Yeomen had another of those pleasant meetings of theirs Thursday night at Pythian Castle. A vocal and instrumental program was rendered and all of the big crowd enjoyed it immensely.

The Grand Canyon Twenty-third street line has a larger and better car now, and the citizens of the north and east sections are commensurately thankful. It's clean, too, as none of us out that way smoke or chew or spit.

The Bay and River steamers are docking daily now at the municipal wharf, and as soon as the company puts in its auto truck service a big business is going to result. Stiver and Trull will have to speed up now.

Beckhaus is putting in a new show case and will fill it with candies. He is also going to put all the spagettos and chili pickles and Dutch cheese and things under glass, where flies and busy fingers will be kept out. Beckhaus is always busy.

BOOZE ADVS. HIT HARD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—Containing a drastic provision against the importation of liquors into prohibition states, and appropriating $30,000,000, the postoffice bill passed the Senate today.

Liquor advertising contained in newspapers and other periodicals is excluded from the mails when destined for prohibition territory.

The liquor exclusion, fostered by Senator Reed, Missouri, and the first step taken in the direction of national prohibition since the District of Columbia dry bill passed the Senate, was the subject of bitter fighting.

Many prohibition senators opposed the measure as being so drastic as to deter states wishing to enact a "moderate" prohibition measure from doing so.

VAUDEVILLE SUNDAY AT RICHMOND THEATER

"Taking Things Easy," presented by Deason and Clifton, will be the feature attraction on the Sunday bill at the T. & D. theater for February 18. This is an exceptionally clever offering that has proved a winner all along the circuit. Three other acts of striking merit will complete the program. They include: Walker and Texas, in a novelty offering, consisting of singing, dancing, fancy rope spinning and knot tying; Madeline Fay, who describes herself as the "dancing violinist" and whose twinkling toes keep time to the strains of her "fiddle"; and E. J. and Lewis in an up-to-the-minute conglomeration of chatter, songs and laugh-compelling comedy.

More graceful and spectacular than the dip and swoop of a descending aeroplane is the dive into the sea performed by the autoists in a tensity dramatic scene of "Redeeming Love."

This Morocco-Paramount photoplay, which is the attraction at the Richmond theater today for the last time, stars Kathlyn Williams.

COUNTY DIVISION.

As stated in the News some days ago, a bill has been framed for submission to the Legislature, which contemplates the division of Contra Costa county. The bill has not been formally presented, however, but will be at the latter half of the session. The bill, which was framed by General W. H. Hart, is in the hands of Senator Burnett and Assemblyman Manning.

But the bill will be presented. Make no mistake about that. And it will be passed. And Contra Costa county will have a chunk cut off it and that chunk will be Richmond and its adjacency.

ELKS POSTPONE BALL.

Richmond Elks have postponed their grand ball which was to have taken place at East Short Park on Wednesday, February 21. The reasons: Ash Wednesday; Oakland Elks grand ball in Hotel Oakland, February 20; benefit show at Elks Club on February 22; and Elks Solo Tourney on February 23. W. E. Imbach was chairman of the committee and made the announcement of the postponement yesterday morning.

HAYES & KUEFFER DISSOLVE.

Hayes & Kueffer, realty operators, have dissolved partnership, and each will handle his own tract. The dissolution was perfectly friendly in every way. Mr. Hayes returned from Marysville last night, where he had been on realty business.

KEEP AWAY SAYS MANN

Thinks U. S. Has Own Troubles

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The United States has enough of a burden to go its duty toward South and Central America without "undertaking to regulate the conduct and civilization of the old nations of Europe," Representative Mann, minority leader, declared in the House today.

Mann was discussing the $247,000,000 army appropriation bill. "I am determined to do everything in my power to keep this nation out of war," said Mann.

When he added, "but if it becomes necessary for us to lick any foreign country, I am willing to go to the limit," the House broke out in a series of cheering that brought corridor stragglers into the galleries on the run.

"I am trusting in hope and faith that the President will do everything which he thinks he can possibly do to keep us out of war," said Mann.

"God only knows where it will land us. I believe that so far as we can we ought to remain the dominant force on the American continent, and I do not believe we are obligated to regulate the world."

"We have got a big burden which we have not yet successfully carried—to take care of the South and Central American countries. When we can perform that job to the credit of ourselves, and of our sister republics, it will be time enough to undertake to regulate the conduct and civilization of the old nations of Europe now engaged in an effort to destroy civilization."

"All opinions must be merged to stand by our country if we get into war—but if we enter the war we will have abandoned our policy to remain supreme on the American continent and remain out of the European continent."

"We will have placed ourselves in a position where, at the end of the war, we shall have to take part in regulating Belgium, Greece, Serbia, Bulgaria, Holland and Russia. Then we can no longer insist on the American policy that Europe must keep out of American affairs."

HUGHES-RAVEN CASE.

The Hughes-Raven conspiracy case in connection with the Pullman sewer contracts, which has been on preliminary trial at Martinez, will be argued Monday. The prosecution contends that their case is strong, especially in view of the fact that the court admitted evidence showing that the tally sheets are in the handwriting of Hughes.

FIRE HIT WORKMAN.

L. Delgado of the Western Pipe and Steel Works, was brought to the emergency hospital yesterday with a gash in his head, caused by being struck by a falling pipe. Several stitches were required to close the gash.

An official optician is to be appointed to examine potato eyes before planting. One of our patrons at the Point was elated over the fact that she found several more spuds than she anticipated.

NATION WIDE DRY.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 16.—The Webb bill for a national prohibition amendment to the constitution, was formally reported favorably to the House today by Representative Carlin of Virginia, on behalf of the Judiciary committee.

Carlin, in a report embodying the committee's views, declared: "It is incumbent upon Congress to submit the issue to states."

The Webb bill was agreed upon by a majority of the committee several weeks ago. Carlin's report to the House states the committee "reports the resolution favorably and recommends its passage," thereby submitting the proposed amendment to the legislatures of the states for ratification.

To be sent to the states for ratification the bill must pass the Senate and House by two-thirds vote. To be made a part of the constitution it must be approved by three-fourths of the states. If thirteen states disapprove it, the bill is lost.

"More than half of the states have declared in favor of prohibition," the Carlin report said. "Eighty-five per cent of the territory of the United States has outlawed the saloon and more than 60 per cent of the population live in such territory, approximately 10,000,000 of our people residing in all parts of the union have petitioned directly for the passage of this resolution."

"Your committee cannot conceive of any good reason, therefore, why the states should be denied longer an opportunity to pass upon the desirability of thus amending the constitution. The question is now one of sufficient importance to be submitted to them so that they may pass upon it."

$22,500 FOR BERKELEY MAN.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 16.—Claims aggregating $22,500 against four insurance companies as the result of the sinking of the steamer Roanoke off Port Harford last May, were awarded to G. W. Rumble of Berkeley today. Fifty-two persons perished when the steamer turned over and sank.

The jury found that the Roanoke was not unseaworthy and overloaded as alleged by the defendants. In addition to today's claims, Rumble has claims against other companies aggregating $22,500.

Mrs. W. H. Sanford was hostess at a George Washington luncheon at her home on Wall street yesterday. A miniature cherry tree on the banquet table with G. W. standing at the base, hatched in hand, was a feature. A pleasing program was rendered.

At Stags tonight the ladies of St. John's parish will conduct a dancing party in the church assembly room. A program will be rendered and card games indulged in.

A number of her little friends were entertained Wednesday evening by Miss Gladys Cox, daughter of Officer Cox.

Bert Flynn of the Standard, also a Moose, will wed Miss Mable Smith in San Francisco today.

The Y M I and Y L I will give a St. Patrick's dance at East Shore park March 7th.

FOUR DIVERS OFF CUBA

German U-Boats Awaiting War

GALVESTON, Texas, Feb. 16.—Four German submarines are lurking off the coast of Cuba ready to begin a reign of frightfulness as soon as war is declared, according to the information brought to Galveston today by Captain Nason of the American steam schooner Fort Bragg. Captain Nason says he obtained information in Guantanamo. Guantanamo harbor has been closed by an anti-submarine net which stretches across the entrance. Captain Nason declared, and permission to enter or leave the harbor must be obtained from the commander of the battleship Montana.

HEAVEN RIGHT HERE.

Don't sing of a bright world that waits over there,
But warble of this world and banish your care.
Beyond the dark Valley sweet Heaven is near,
But there's a good imitation around us right here.

THEORY AND PRACTICE.

A letter written from a plain citizen asks why every city and large town cannot maintain municipal storage plants, filled with meats, poultry, butter, eggs and fruit, to be sold to the public at a reasonable price, instead of at the unreasonable prices demanded by the middlemen.

This plain citizen adds that the city has as much right to maintain municipal cold storage plants as it has to supply water and light.

It is perhaps true as this plain citizen says, that the city has "a right" to provide cold storage plants, to put in eggs and butter when they are cheap—and let the people have them at a reasonable price when they become dear.

Of course, every city has "a right" to do anything that a majority of its citizens want.

But merely having "a right" to do a thing in this country does not mean that you can do it.

Women, as every man of sense knows, have "a right" to vote. But they are not permitted to vote in most of the states of the Union.

And the individual, for instance, who owns or is slowly buying a little house, in which to keep his family and raise children for the benefit of the state, "has a right" to keep that house free from taxation. But he does not keep it free from taxation.

On the contrary, the habit is to tax him about 90 per cent of the actual value of his little house, and to tax the big house that cost a million on the hill near him about 20 per cent of its value.

Having "a right" doesn't help him much.

The people in the cities, and the majority of all citizens, have many rights. But transforming those rights into realities is a slow process—about as slow as transforming the iron ore in the hills into buildings, and the sand on the shore into window glass to light those buildings.

Little by little "the rights" are conquered, the buildings are built, life is made better.

Doubtless in time human beings will even have brains enough to reduce the cost of living by combining for their own advantage, instead of having capital combined for their disadvantage.

Most of us have two sets of manners, one for public display and the other for home consumption. But then what are wives for if not to jaw at and lay the blame on. That's the way Adam did.

Do you get mad when we print things about you in this paper? Why are you not thankful that we don't print lots of things that we hear and suppress?

The Daredevil

By Maria Thompson Davies

Author of "The Melting of Molly"

Copyright, 1916, by the Betty & Britton Co.

Therefore it was not many minutes before we stood within the doors of that very grim and terrible home of the human beings who have shined with a great crime. I know that I am never to forget that hour and am to carry forever the wound that it inflicted upon my heart as I walked through the gloom and darkness and stillness of that dark house.

At last, with many unlockings of heavy doors by the director of that prison, we stood in a room that was as a cage in which to keep the human animal that crouched down upon a hard bed in one of its corners and leaned a head shaved bare of any hair upon a very thin and white hand.

"Leave me, superintendent, for a few minutes. The young man will stay by the door to let you know when I want you," said the Gouverneur Faulkner to the superintendent, who nodded and left the room as I took a position over beside the heavy iron bars that swung together after him.

"My man," said the Gouverneur Faulkner in a voice that was so gentle as that which a mother uses to a child in severe illness, "I want you to let me sit down on your cot beside you and talk to you about your trouble."

"Got nothing to say, parson. I done it, and I want to swing as quick as the law sends me," answered the poor human from behind his hands without even raising his bowed head.

"I am not a minister, and I've come to talk to you because some of your neighbors and friends think that there may be a reason why you should not be hanged for the death of your brother."

"It is my duty to help them keep you from the penalty of the law, which you may not deserve even if you desire it. Can you tell me your story as man to man, with the hope that it will help you to a reprieve?" And as he spoke I observed a tone of command come into the voice of my Gouverneur Faulkner that was as clear and beautiful as the call of the bugle to men for a battle.

"I done what I had to, and I'm ready to die for it. I've got nothing to say," answered the man, with a more of the determination of misery in his voice.

"My neighbors don't know nothing about it, and I don't want 'em to. Just let them keep quiet and let it all die when the state swings me."

"So there is some secret about the matter that you are willing to die to keep, is there?" asked the Gouverneur Faulkner, with a quickness of command in his voice. "What had your brother done to Mary Brown that you killed him for doing?"

"Curse you! What's that to you?" snarled the man as he sprang up from behind the gouverneur and leaped, crouched and panting, against the bars.

"I done it!"
of the cage in which the three of us were inclosed. "Who are you anyway? My state has said I was to swing for killing him, and there's no more to question about it."

"I am the governor of your state," answered that Gouverneur Faulkner as he rose and stood, tall and commanding, before the poor human being who was cowering as a dog that had felt the lash of a whip. "You are my son because you are a son of the state of Harpeth, and as a representative of that state I am going to exercise my guardianship and if possible prevent the state from the crime of taking your life if you do not deserve punishment."

"I'm condemned by the laws of the state. You can't go back on that, governor or no governor," made answer the man, with a panting of misery in his voice.

"As you know, there are certain unwritten laws which have more influence in some cases as to the guilt of a murderer than any on the statute books," said the Gouverneur Faulkner with a very great slowness, so that the poor human dog might comprehend him. "If you killed your brother to save—save Mary Brown from worse than death then you have not the right to demand execution from your state to shelter her from publicity when she is no longer in danger of anything worse. Did you get to her in time to save her or—"

"Yes, I did and I had. Curse you! I'll have to kill you for getting words out of me that all the lawyers have tried to make me say all this time." And with the oath and a snarl the man made a lunge at my Gouverneur Faulkner with something keen and shining that he had drawn from the top of his coarse boot. But that poor human being of the prison was not of enough quickness to do the killing of his desire in the face of Robert's marquis of Grex and Eze, who had twice with her felt picked the red cloth heart of the young Count de Courtois, the best wordman of France, in gay combat in the great hall of the old Chateau de Grex. With my walking cane of a young gentleman of American fashion, which I had taken with me so early upon the beautiful Mademoiselle Whitworth before my cherry had befallen me as a gift and which I had without thought brought into that prison with me, I parried the blow of the knife at my beloved Gouverneur Faulkner, but not in such a manner as to prevent a glancing of that knife, which inflicted a scratch of considerable depth upon my forearm under its sleeve of brown chevrot.

LIVE LOCAL LAONICS WITH SANDPAPER EDGES

By the OLD MAN.

As this department has contracted a case of is grippie, trapping around night times in the rain and cold, it has a grouch on tonight and proposes to roast everybody to a dark brown finish. The world is all wrong, and tumbling around backward in its orbit; the people are all daffy, and the silver linings to the clouds have all been torn away. The milk of human kindness in our weather-beaten breast is sour, and there is no balm in Gilead, or anywhere else. We went to La Moine's one-cent sale and got some kill-em-quick tablets, and as they haven't done us any good we intend to slip 'em into Bill Davis' midnight coffee. We'd as soon kill folks as not, and rather. Grippie is what Sherman said war was.

Councilman Jim Long is pretty mad, and wants us to distinctly understand that his diamond stud is not glass, but the finest quality of paste. He got it in a 10-cent prize package at Dilly's. All right—we apologize and admit that it is not glass. Glass is worth something nowadays.

This rain, as Noah remarked as he gashed the Ark off with a long pole, is worth millions to the farmers. Hope it keeps up for a week.

Oh, yes, and while grouching we want to make a loud scream about the insurance rates in this town. We took out a lot a few days ago on the office, and had to pay $3.60 a hundred per year. That is nothing less than grand larceny. And Garfinkle, who presided at the insurance rate meeting night before last, pays $4.30 a hundred. He did not roar. Between taxes, insurance and a few similar holdups, a fellow is better off working for wages than running a business, unless it might be a booze business where the profit is ten thousand per cent.

The Richmond Milk solo players are creating up on the town. Made by the lodges of San Francisco, Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley. Richmond always either leads or is close up near the front.

Harry Hammond roars in his red suit. Times because onions are $10 a sack and potatoes $5. Huh! We know he had no 47 ranch, as he claimed. Anyone with a ranch has his own apes and onions. Come down here, you poor city flat dweller, and we will give you one whole onion, and one whole potato, regardless of expense, from our 224.

Judge Hannum returned from Los Angeles last night, where he had several law matters on hand during the past week. The Judge was attorney for the News during the late unpleasantness with an evening contemporary, and won a signal victory all along the line.

We note with dismay and alarm from the Martinez Gazette that the Maine has been sunk in Havana harbor.

The new jitneys running between Albany and the Santa Fe station in Richmond seem to be picking up quite a business, as they charge 5 cents less than the street cars for the ride. When we first came to Richmond we used to roar about that 15c fare, but they have our permission now to raise it to a dollar. It would be the best thing that ever happened.

The saloon building heretofore occupied by one Odham and his band of chippies, out 3rd street, where the car turns for San Pablo, is being moved bodily down to Clinton avenue to be converted into a dwelling. Good move. We had a finger in that pie and are glad of it.

Dad Brock went out bear hunting last fall, and Fred Renner tells this one on him: A native up north met Dad and remarked, "I seen some big bear tracks just west o' here." Dad—"Which way is east?"

The frogs are croaking, the cows are mooing, the dogs are baying at the moon, the Thomas cats are holding Caruso concerts on the back fence, and the young man's fancy is lightly turning to thoughts of love. Soon the beer sign will shoot athwart the moon and mothers will dote the kids with sulphur and molasses. Spring's coming.

The Richmond saloonkeepers are breeding a scab on their noses which they will likely never forget. In stirring up more trouble by circulating petitions for an election on the saloon ordinance, they show their lack of common sense and judgment. At the election last fall the people of Richmond said very plainly, by over five hundred majority, that they did not want any saloons at all, and this time the booze artists will get what is coming to them. It is their own fault. When a man has not sense enough to tell well enough alone he has no sympathy coming.
